The paragraph at the top of page 72 should read:

You don't have to crop the image while you are correcting its perspective. Once you have the corners in the correct location to establish the perspective of the image, move the side handles<or Option-drag (Mac)/Alt-drag (Windows) the corner handles<until the area you'd like to keep is within the cropping rectangle, and then press Enter (Figures 2.23 and 2.24).

Page 235, 1st paragraph, 2nd sentence
