

About the Author

Steve Oualline is a professional software engineer who lives in San Diego with his wife and two dogs. When he's not programming, he can be found at the Poway Midland Railroad where he's a real engineer.

About the Technical Reviewers

These reviewers contributed their considerable hands-on expertise to the entire development process for Perl for C Programmers. As the book was being written, these dedicated professionals reviewed all the material for technical content, organization, and flow. Their feedback was critical to ensuring that Perl for C Programmers fits our readers' need for the highest-quality technical information.

Denis Scherbakov is a System Administrator at the Belarus National Academy of Science (BNAS). He has had nine years of progressively responsible experience in software development and management of corporate networks within Windows, Linux, UNIX, and IRIX. He has held positions ranging from Designer and Software Developer to Internet Security Specialist and System Administrator. In his projects, he mainly uses Java, C/C++, and Perl. He is presently working on a project for the NASA Goddard Space Flight Center and the Aerosol Robotic Network (AERONET) Group using MFC/C++, Perl, SOAP, and XML. Denis is a member of the European Aerosol Research Lidar Network (EARLINET) establishing aerosol climatology. He lives in Minsk, Belarus. Recently he bought a mountain bike and a new Volkswagen B5.

Jason A. Buss has been working in the IT field for about six years. He currently works for a leading general aviation manufacturer, designing and implementing applications for publishing service information, using a single-source SGML/XML publishing system, delivering hard copy, web, and CD-ROM publications. In his free time, he enjoys spending time with his wife and four children, playing guitar, watching cartoons, and working on his PCs (currently playing with XML and Python).

